

The Bomber Command Memorial, Hyde Park Corner, London

Public realm works

Preserving the unique character of the setting relied on the protection and successful retention of existing mature trees throughout the intense building programme. Opened by HM The Queen, this memorial showcases the best of Britain's cultural heritage, with the surrounding trees being an integral part of that visitor experience.

Architect: Liam O'Connor Architects & Planning Consultants

Trees: Jeremy Barrell

Issues:

- Silva Cell tree planting
- Raising levels in RPAs
- No-dig surfacing in RPAs
- Negotiation with LPA & Royal Parks
- Semi-mature tree planting
- Historically sensitive setting

Call us on 01425 651470

or visit us at www.barrelltreecare.co.uk

Photo credits: Front page - RAFBF, this page bottom left - Nick Carter